Supporting Details: On December 22, 2003, after speaking with Rashawn concerning his bumping of falling onto me, he returned to his seat. He started acting strangely by changing seats, moving his chair away from his desk, + then acting extremely quiet. cl noticed my wallet was missing. The next day, he was absent from school which is unusual because Rashawn has a good attendance record. cl called his home on Tuesday 12/23/03 + spoke with his step-father. He said Rashawn should have been in school on Tuesday + that Rashawn wasn't home yet (approximately 9 p.m.) cl told the step-father about my missing wallet. He said he wouldn't be surprised if he took it because Rashawn comes & goes as he pleases, + he doesn't know what kind of friends he has. On 12/25/03, cl called his home again. His mother told me that Rashawn had been missing since Tues. night. Apparently, his step-father had confronted him about my missing wallet + Rashawn had ran away. cl called again on Friday morning. His mother said Rashawn had returned home, he knew about my missing wallet + he could take me to where it is. My friend + cl picked up Rashawn + his mother by car. We went back to the school's campus + Rashawn took us to where it was. My driver's license. Old

Navy gift cards, car's car & house keys were missing. Everything else was intact. Rashawn said Natikeem Brown stole the wallet & took the license, even though it's been reported from others that Rashawn was also directly responsible for taking the wallet & well as his bragging that he went shopping with the Old Navy gift card & his discarding of the license.

Status: Rashawn & Natikeem have been suspended for five days. 1/6/09 to 1/13/09

12/16/03. Periods 7,8. Science Class. Rashawn's behavior has been getting increasingly disruptive. He often refuses to sit in his assigned seat. He uses vulgar language. He talks constantly and has to be reminded to sit quietly. It took him a very long time to begin his work in Science class. He does not listen when I tell him to stop talking and stop disrupting the class. He often interferes with the teaching process. Because his behavior is becoming increasingly more disruptive, I intend to refer him for counseling.	Amita Rivman
12/17/03. Period 3. Computer Class. Rashawn misses start of computer class because he decided to join four other classmates and joins them in going to the gym to schedule a basketball game with another class. No Teacher was asked for permission. The five students decided on their own. This is their statement to me.	Anthony J Massone
1/05/04. Informed at 9:30 am that on Monday 12/22/03, during the eighth period Ms. Spencer's (Math) wallet from her desk. Upon investigation, Rashawn and Nahkeee became the suspects. The wallet was recovered outside of school but on campus grounds. When questioned as to whether they took or had knowledge of who took the wallet, both students accused each other. When I questioned Nahkeee Brown today, he stated he had no involvement, but stated, take Rashawn took the wallet. When I asked Rashawn the same question, he stated Nakeem took the wallet. Principal suspended both students for 5 days.	Anthony J Massone
